SIXTY MEMBERS STATE ASSEMBLY TO BE SUMMONED

Must Explain Connection With Chicago Sanitary District

Chicago, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Sixty state legislators will be subpoenaed to tell the special grand jury why and for what services they were paid monthly salaries ranging from $200 to $500 by the Chicago Sanitary District.

Thirty-five of the 60 names in the hands of Frank J. Loesch, first assistant state attorney, were either written or initialed on each card or marked with the word "trustees." Many bore the initials "C. W. R.," which prosecutors believe stands for three sponsors, T. J. Crowe, former president of the district, trustee James A. Whalen, and the late Michael Rosenberg.

Beneficial Laws
An examination of the list, prosecutors said, revealed that during the terms of many of the legislative pay-rollers, the state assembly passed measures beneficial to the district.

One such act boosted the district's bonding power from four per cent of the total taxable valuation for construction purposes to five per cent, thus raising the bond limit from $184,000,000 to $230,000,000. Despite this, however, trustee Henry A. Berger testified before the grand jury that the district is "up against it."

Only $4,500,000 remains in the treasury, he said, $2,930,000 is "lost" and the district faces obligations amounting to $105,859,355 in 1929.

One-fourth of the entire state legislature was the payroll and those called before the special grand jury will be asked specifically what favorable legislation and what "legislation protection" were accorded trustees in return for their "favors," Loesch said.

The legislators, their monthly salaries and services, as listed in the index, follow:

CHICAGO POLICE
CONTINUE RAIDS
BEGUN THIS WEEK

Broadax Sweeps Over the Same Ground Cutting New Crop

Chicago, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The police broadax that swept Chicago last week end was slicing over the same ground today, cutting a new crop of hoodlums.

Approximately half of the city's police force engaged in the second grand roundup of the week. They found the field far less fertile than last Sunday and Monday when more than 3000 persons were jailed. Up to 4 a. m. about 600 arrests had been made.

The list of prisoners including some of the men taken in the cleanup earlier in the week. The campaign was continuing through the day, with the prospect of intensification tonight.

With the raids only a few hours old, Deputy Commissioner John Stege learned that several men sought for a series of robberies had been captured and identified; and that two robberies had been prevented by raiding squads arriving while the holdups were going on.

Those against whom no evidence is at hand will be released, but known hoodlums will be arrested and re-arrested in subsequent drives until they become so disgusted that they will leave Chicago—which is one of primary hopes of police.

Federal prohibition agents also went into action simultaneously with police, although acting independently. They battered their way into the Minnet cubs at 943 Rush street.

Besides arresting the proprietor Louis Falkenstein and seizing liquor, the agents obtained what they believed to be the club's membership list. Fred O. Siloway, in charge of the prohibition agents, would not make known the list, but he said it included the names of a railroad president, two downtown bankers, and several prominent professional men.

"It looks like a couple of chapters from the social register and a handful of pages from Dunn & Bradstreet," he said.

DEATH OF POSTAL CLERK CAUSED BY DRINKING POISON

Now Seeking Stranger
in Death of Carrie
Bruns at Ohlman

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Investigation in the mystery case of Carrie Bruns, pretty 19-year-old postal clerk, who is said to have taken her own life by drinking wood alcohol, today was turned upon the "dark-eyed, moustached stranger" described in the story told to authorities by Mrs. George Brown of Carlinville.

Miss Bruns' body was found on a roadside near Ohlman, January 4th. There were no marks of violence nor any clue except foot prints obscured by the rain, close to her.

Mrs. Brown was to be interrogated again today. Her story was that a stranger, dressed in a light hat and overcoat called at her home about noon yesterday, asked for something to eat, and after eating, gave her a bundle of papers to burn for him.

She told Sheriff E. M. Stuebel of Carlinville that she threw the packet into the fire, and then grabbed out one sheet when she noticed it was addressed "Sheriff."

Scrawled with pencil on the ordinary piece of white wrapping paper was the following story:

"Carrie Bruns did not meet her death by any hands only her own. She sent for me to meet her. I waited for the office to close to see her. We went for a drive. When we were about four miles from town, she was taken sick. She died one mile from town. I placed her at the side of the road, waited until they picked her up and left. I told her I was a married man and could not marry her. She told me she would do it. But I didn't think she would."

Don't Doubt Woman.
Sheriff Stuebel indicated that he did not doubt the veracity of Mrs. Brown, but suspected that the "dark stranger" was the subject of delusion desiring a space in the newspapers.

He added that the case was outside his county, and that he had sent the papers rescued from the fire to Sheriff Henry C. Hill of Christian county, who is continuing the investigation.

Sheriff Hill to whom Sheriff Stuebel sent a letter, also believed it to be the work of a "crank" but plans to try to find the stranger. He had not received the letter this morning.

Inclined to believe the girl took her own life, Sheriff Hill will also try to discover the source of the wood alcohol.

Eight Vacancies
on I. A. A. Board

Danville, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Official delegates to the annual convention of the Illinois Agricultural Association here Jan. 30-31 will have eight vacancies on the executive committee to fill. All vacancies will be filled by the vote of the convention.

The eight names to come before the district caucuses represent committees from the odd-numbered congressional districts of the state as follows: Harold C. Vail, Downers Grove, 10th-11th; C. E. Bamboor, Polo, 13th; A. N. Skinner, Yates City, 15th; George J. Stoll, Chestnut, 17th; J. L. Whisnand, Charleston, 19th; Samuel Sorrells, Raymond, 21st; W. L. Cope, Salem, 23rd; and Fred Dietz, DeSoto, 25th. Members of the state board from the even-numbered districts hold office until next year.

Only two changes were made in the executive committee last year when Charles S. Black of Jacksonville and M. G. Lambert of Ferris were elected to office. With the growth of association activities, since responsibilities resulting from increased service there has been a marked tendency to continue with the same directors in office year after year. The president and vice-president are elected annually by the Board of Delegates at the state convention. Other officers are selected by the executive committee.

FISHING TRIP OF PRESIDENT- ELECT NEAR END

Will Probably Return to Belle Island
Sunday P. M.

Key Largo, Fla., Jan. 26.—(AP)—President-elect Hoover, still keeping out of communication with shore, was having his third and final day of fishing today on his visit to the Florida keys south of this little village.

Whether he would fish out the day and return to Belle Isle, in Biscayne Bay, Sunday forenoon, seemed to depend upon how well the big fellows were biting.

If luck should prove elusive it was expected that he would board the yacht "Amite" about noon and start back for his vacation home near Miami Beach, arriving late in the day.

This uncertainty meant long vigils for photographers and newspaper correspondents he left behind when he slipped quietly away from Belle Isle Thursday and drove almost unnoticed to Key Largo.

Unconfirmed reports are that upon his return several conferences with party leaders will be held during the coming week and he is certain to put in some time on his inaugural address.

What the President-elect would like to see is a virile, fighting party in the southland, something that has not existed since reconstruction days. His friends expect him to bring into play to this end the capacity for organization which he demonstrated during his campaign, and in his work as Commerce Secretary, as food administrator, war relief director and mining engineer.

On Monday evening the annual meeting of the entire parish was held in the Guild rooms. There was a picnic supper at 6:30, which was followed by the business meeting. There was a good attendance, considering the sickness and icy walks, and the meeting was an interesting one.

Various plans for the year were made and the treasurers of the various organizations read their reports. Reports were made by the Rector for several organizations which have no financial statement. ## LOCAL HUNTERS TAKING PART IN FEEDING QUAIL

Several Responses to Appeals Reported
by Waltonians

Game Warden Henry Keister left at noon today for Harmon and Hamilton townships with several bushels of grain, which will be fed to quail and pheasants and Sunday morning, three cars with members of the Dixon chapter of the Izaak Walton League will start out, making South Dixon, Marion, Amboy, Nachusa, Lee Center and Dixon townships, scattering feed for the birds, now facing starvation.

Warden Keister in making an investigating trip south of Harmon yesterday found about 75 quail hovered beneath a culvert, where they were sheltered from the zero wind but were without food. Returning to Dixon he conferred with President Louis Knief of the local Walton League chapter and two cars were sent out today with food.

Response to Call
Local sportsmen are responding to the call for relief for quail and pheasants. A physician who was responding to a call in the country this morning and knowing where there were three flocks of quail, took a bushel of feed with him to feed the birds.

In another instance, a hunter telephoned Warden Keister and instructed him to purchase wheat and feed it to the birds, to be paid for by the individual. A local grain merchant offered feed in large quantities to President Knief for emergency feeding purposes. Four enthusiastic hunters who are deeply interested in the propagation and preservation program of the Walton League, made voluntary cash subscriptions which were turned over to President Knief to aid in the relief work.

Farmers Aiding
A sum was subscribed from the treasury of the Dixon chapter to be used in the purchase of feed. Reports this morning show that farmers in many localities are responding to the appeal to feed the birds. In May township it was reported that several bushels of corn had been scattered along hedges, were even crows and rabbits were being fed.

Shortage of food and inability to find feed because of the coating of ice on the snow, is not the only danger facing the quail, of Lee county. The long cold spell, it is reported, is resulting in many of the birds being smothered. It is explained that with the birds hovering close together for days during the long cold spell, those in the center of the covey smother.

Early Trial to be Given Negro Leader

Chicago, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Counsel for Oscar DePriest, Negro Congressman-elect from the first Chicago district, were assured in Criminal Court today of an early trial for him on gambling conspiracy charges.

DePriest wants to get the trial completed before time for him to go to Congress at Washington.

Criminal Court Chief Justice John J. Sullivan granted a motion for immediate assignment of the case.

DePriest, political leader of Chicago's near South side, was indicted with Charles Farrell and Police Lieut. Patrick Brady, by the special grand jury investigating politico-criminal alliances, on a charge of conspiracy in connection with gambling in the South side Negro belt.

Shepler Murder Case
Recessed 'til Monday

Burlington, Iowa, Jan. 26.—(AP)—With John Vaughn convicted of second degree murder, the trial of Jake Zippe, accused with him of slaying Max Shepler, began here yesterday and has been recessed until Monday afternoon.

Meanwhile counsel for Vaughn announced that application for a new trial will be made at once, the final date having been set at Feb. 2. The court is to pass sentence on Vaughn Feb. 5.

Zippe testified in his own behalf yesterday, and denied any connection with the slaying. A state witness, Mrs. Lucy Moore, 84, of Keithsburg, Ill., said that Zippe had told her he had "dropped Shepler off."

TIME CLAUSE IN CRUISERS BILL
DELAYS ACTION

Washington, Jan. 26.—(AP)—As an issue in the cruiser bill controversy, requiring that construction on the ships called for begin within three years today had moved to the front.

The Senate was in session but a short time yesterday, adjourning after learning of the death of former Senator Underwood of Alabama, but it became known that President Coolidge still felt that the time clause should be eliminated and this is thought to have given opponents of the bill in its present form a further rallying point. There had been discussion of the time clause, previously, and Senator Borah said that if that were stricken out that he would not oppose the bill.

The President holds the opinion that the time clause should be eliminated because of budget considerations, and not because of army objection on his part to the building of the cruisers in the near future.

The President's stand has not altered the determination of Chairman Fale of the Naval Affairs Committee, to leave the time clause intact.

One reason that Senator Hale desires the time clause left in is because it would do away with the necessity for a conference on the measure with the House if the rest of the provisions go through intact. He and other supporters of the bill also feel that repeal of the time clause might delay indefinitely the construction of the ships and make the program to strengthen the Navy of dubious effect.

BOSWELL GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY, JURORS DECIDED

Three Co-Defendants of Ex-Prosecutor Also Convicted

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Arlie O. Boswell, whose four years as State's Attorney of Williamson county, Ill., coincided with the reign of the late Charlie Birger as southern Illinois gang chieftain, was convicted by a federal court jury last night of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act. Three co-defendants were also found guilty and a fourth was freed.

Boswell, with George Bell, former Williamson Co. Coroner; Hezlie Byrn, former Johnson City police chief; and Pete Saino, "big time" bootlegger, will be sentenced next week in Danville, Ill. Judge Walter C. Lindley said last night. The court denied motions for new trials for all defendants.

Marion Man Freed
Thomas Boyd, former Marion Chief of Police, who was acquitted, was surprised by the jury's verdict, that he misunderstood it and thought he had been convicted.

Freddie Wooten, former Birger gangster, jointly indicted, a witness for the government after pleading guilty, was sentenced last night by Judge Lindley to two years in prison. Wooten was already under life sentence for the murder of Mrs. Lory Price.

Dominic Loni, a wholesale bootlegger, who pleaded guilty, will be sentenced next month. Loni is now serving a jail sentence on a liquor conviction.

The jury deliberated three hours and seven minutes.

The government placed public officials, former peace officers, convicts, bootleggers and plain citizens on the stand to show Boswell connived with the Birger gang to control Williamson county's liquor traffic.

Detailed Charges.
Art Newman, subaltern of Birger, and under two life sentences for murder, testified Boswell ordered the Herrin election riots of 1926 when six men were killed; attempted to get Sheriff Oren Coleman of Williamson county into a death trap; instigated the killing of State Highway Patrolman Lory Price and Mrs. Price, and received "protection money" collected by Birgerites.

The government also introduced court records to prove laxity in prosecution of liquor violators during his four years, Boswell, on the stand, admitted being out of the county during the Herrin riot although Coleman then a candidate, had asked him to summon the militia.

Boswell, Bell and Byrn are at liberty under $10,000 bond each, the bond to continue in effect until sentences are passed. Defense attorneys did not indicate today whether they planned an appeal.

Commenting on the convictions, District Attorney Harold G. Baker said:

"We feel the government has been vindicated, especially in view of the charges of persecution. Not only does the record show Boswell guilty of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, but of other felonies of a more serious nature."

Ralph Leseemann, Assistant District Attorney who prosecuted the case, declared that the verdict "is not only a victory for the government, but for law enforcement as well," and added that "I feel sure no other such case will arise in Williamson county."

FELL INTO VARNISH
William Wakley, employed in the paint department at the J. I. Case plant on Depot avenue, was the victim of a very unusual accident yesterday about noon, while engaged in dipping plow parts into a large varnish tank, when in some manner, his feet slipped, and he fell head foremost in the tank.

The tank is described as being about five feet in depth and the young man fell head downward, only his feet sticking out of the sticky mass. Fellow workmen, who at the time were busy near the paint and varnish tanks, rushed to his assistance and dragged him from the tank.

He had swallowed some of the varnish and was soon as excruciated, was rushed to the Dixon public hospital. Reports this morning indicated that he was resting very comfortably and it was expected that barring complications which might result, that he would completely recover from his varnish bath.

Butter Market

Chicago, Jan. 26—(AP)—Butter trade conditions are showing improvement over the outlook a week ago, and prices on all markets have advanced.

Receivers sensing gradual improvement in the situation were inclined to hold all grades quite firmly, and there was a tendency to accumulate stock in anticipation of higher values.

Buyers became more active as prices went up, and in some instances the purchasing was in excess of current needs.

Medium and lower grades, of which a few weeks the supply was burdensome, are now closely cleaned up, and are in relatively firmer position than top grades. Improved demand for the cheaper kind has brought out numerous lots of medium quality goods from the freezers, and the buyers make little distinction between the fresh and the storage, both being saleable quick owing to scarcity.

Production appears to be increasing, but severe cold waves and snow have undoubtedly retarded deliveries.

Wall Street Close

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Jan. 26—(AP)—The stock market encountered considerable week-end profit-taking today, after yesterday's sharp advances. Bullish operation were carried forward in several sections of the list, however, particularly the utilities, motors and coppers, and about a dozen issues reached new high ground. The pace of trading fell off sharply from the previous session.

There was little in the day's news to influence the market.

estimates this season will have to be revised upward. In this connection, belief expressed some time ago by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine that the world supply of wheat was but slightly in excess of the apparent demand is now finding favor in various quarters. Meanwhile the prospect of a crop ahead is developing both east of the Mississippi and in Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri—ice coats that have formed threatening to smother much of the wheat now dormant, whereas in other places remarkable advances in freezing and thawing of wheat ground is experienced after rains.

Leading crop experts say, however, that it is practically impossible to tell the actual condition of domestic winter wheat at this time, and that another 30 or 60 days must elapse before the extent of winter killing can be ascertained. It is also pointed out that last year conditions were somewhat similar, that there was severe damage in central states, and yet the United States total winter crop eventually turned out to be a large one. However, domestic winter wheat acreage is smaller than last year, and reports at hand tell also of pronounced deficiency of moisture so far in spring wheat sections of Canada.

Corn price advances are reported as having been noticeably held in check by extensive undoing of spread trades against wheat, corn being sold and wheat bought. It is also contended that wheat price upturns are likely to switch European feed demand back again to corn, especially if crop damage to corn continues in Argentina. Oats are responsive to excellent cash demand and to signs that farm use of oats has been heavy.

Broadening of export outlet, with continuance of active call from home consumers as well, are reasons ascribed for the brisk upward swing of provisions.

Chicago Auto Show
Opened for a Week

Chicago, Jan. 26—(AP)—Spiffy new wrinkles in luxury, comfort and quality on wheels were disclosed to the public gaze today.

The 29th national exposition of automobiles at the Coliseum, the 14th Drake Hotel salon and other special exhibits opened for a week's annual run.

At the Coliseum was a $5,000,000 display of more than 30 passenger cars and chassis, plus 150 accessory and 82 shop equipment exhibits, by 46 American manufacturers.

The Drake show includes the work of the best custom built body designers and chassis builders in America and Europe. Ninety custom cars are shown. The average price is $9,200.

No radical changes in engine designs are being shown, and body coloring this year is somewhat more subdued, but still variegated and lively. Greater rear seat width is apparent generally, some models increasing a former two-passenger capacity to three in the rear.

Gadgets and doodads are increasingly apparent on touring and closed cars. Cigar lighters, clocks, golf bag containers, compartments for parcels, cabinets for glasses and refreshments are among the extra equipment shown.

Body designers have drawn inspiration freely from masters in painting for color effects.

Mrs. Hoover Once Won Skating Race

Waterloo, Iowa.—(AP)—Lou Henry, the girl who became Mrs. Herbert Hoover, is well remembered in her birthplace as a serious girl who liked picnics and outdoor sports.

When residents of Waterloo heard that Lou Henry was returning to Iowa on a visit with her candidate husband, they recalled that she had been a shy but friendly child.

The love of outdoor things that has characterized Mrs. Hoover's life was evident even before she left Waterloo at the age of 12, for "the Henrys all loved picnics," Mrs. Clara Schollan, a former neighbor, remembers, "and would drive in the country with the horses when other people would sit at home."

Mrs. R. C. Wangler, across the street from the former Henry home, remembers Lou as "rather serious and thoughtful."

The following story, clipped from The Reporter, a local newspaper of that time, shows little Lou Henry's budding interest in sports.

"Won Skating Race"

"At the candle race in the Irving Hotel skating rink Monday night the ladies' prize, a handsome silk parasol, was won by Miss Lou Henry, who made the circuit of the hall twice and blew out 12 candles, all in 38 seconds. The gentlemen's prize, a box of cigars, was won by Frank Sierling, who made the circuit of the hall twice and blew out 37 candles in 24 seconds."

With the bride and bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wenger of Davenport, parents of the bride, who witnessed the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wendland left for Davenport where they will make their home and where the bridegroom has a home ready for occupancy. Former acquaintances and friends of the bride in Dixon, extend to them best wishes for happiness.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS TO MEET TONIGHT

The Royal Neighbors will meet in Union Hall this evening. All officers are expected to be present.

Washington—Just how will Mrs. Herbert Hoover manage her first lady's job as the hostess of the White House? How will she interpret its demands? What new customs will she substitute for the old?

These are the questions over the Washington Haviland these days, for the mistress of the White House is the most discussed woman of the capital city as her husband's inauguration on March 4 nears.

Mrs. Hoover, general opinion has it, faces the hardest task of any preceding White House mistress.

Mrs. Coolidge has been "the First Lady perfect," say those of high and low rank, those in officialdom and those on the outer fringe.

Knows Duties Well

Cross-section opinion has it that technically, Mrs. Hoover will be a perfect White House hostess—that, as a cosmopolitan accustomed to the nuances of official etiquette and official hostessing, she knows the technique of her job very well.

"But—verdict goes on—'will she captivate all classes as has Mrs. Coolidge?'"

Many speculate that as a woman used to big executive jobs with whom efficiency has been a necessity because of her many irons in the fire, Mrs. Hoover will simplify and do away with many obsolete First Lady customs.

Congressmen, for instance, have found it about as easy through the Coolidge administration to present their constituents' wives to the First Lady as to send the constituents themselves to the First Man.

A note of introduction from a congressman to Mrs. Coolidge's secretary generally means an invitation to meet Mrs. Coolidge at tea some afternoon that week. From 20 to 30 women are presented at these teas, each one being given a few moments of personal conversation with Mrs. Coolidge.

Their Friends Real Friends

Mrs. Hoover's friends recall that she has never permitted her husband's various official positions to foist meaningless impersonal social life upon her. The Hoover home in any of the four corners of the world has always been a hospitable one, but hospitable to real friends, the people the Hoovers wanted to see, and not the people they ought to see.

If you think of the job of being First Lady some such simple matter as wearing stunning gowns to the formal receptions, standing in a receiving line, and occasionally okaying a White House menu for a state dinner, consider some of the First Lady duties which Mrs. Coolidge has performed. She has bought the first Christmas seals, the first disabled war veteran poppy, the first stamp of seal for most any charitable event each year of her husband's administration.

She has opened flower shows, automobile shows, radio shows, model houses. She has placed almost as many cornerstones as the Prince of Wales.

Christens Ships and Planes

She has christened ships and airplanes. She has received flowers and fruits and cheeses and hales of wool and all native products from every state in the Union, being photographed by the presenter nearly every time.

She has handed out the first Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for Washington charity organizations for each year of her First Ladyship. She attends the opening performance of the circus, the opera, the football and baseball games, to say nothing of attending private charitable functions.

She plants trees, is official White

House wedding and funeral attendee at all such affairs affecting any member of officialdom, and must receive and be photographed with most any White House delegation which has so wily business as to grind an insect on seeing the First Lady.

Mrs. Coolidge has been photographed with visiting garment makers, beauty shop associations, actors and actresses, best farm boys and girls, nation's oldest mother, etc.

Mrs. Hoover will do many things, but she will not do all these, say the capital commentators.

Like Mrs. Roosevelt

General opinion has it that Mrs. Hoover will take her White House job much as did Mrs. Roosevelt. She will do those things which must be done, and do many extra things, which she believes worth doing, but she will leave undone many things which she does not believe necessary.

Mrs. Roosevelt, for instance, always carried a big bouquet of flowers at public receptions, making it impossible to shake hands with the 800 people who, for instance, attended one reception. She insisted that it was her husband who was in public life—not herself—and he backed her in this opinion.

The photographers declare Mrs. Hoover is more nearly like Mrs. Harding than any predecessor—that she looks like her and knows what she wants when she wants it—and gets it—in the best Mrs. Harding manner.

Special Meeting W. C. T. U. Much Enjoyed on Friday Afternoon

The special meeting of the W. C. T. U. postponed from last Friday and celebrating National Prohibition, Jan. 16th was held Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock in St. Paul's Lutheran church with a very pleasant and interesting program, and very much enjoyed by those in attendance.

Owing to the rain and icy condition of the streets, the meeting was not well attended.

Mrs. Anna Barnett, the president, presided and the meeting opened by all singing, "America the Beautiful," with Miss Callie B. Morgan as pianist.

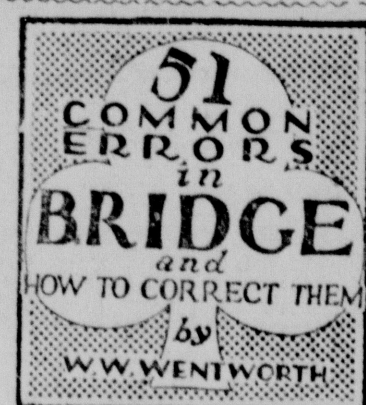

Salute to the flag was given and a second number, "The Doxology" sung.

Dr. J. Frank Young led the devotionals, reading and explaining the 121st Psalm and offering prayer.

Rev. B. H. Cleaver gave an able and interesting address on "The Liquor Traffic Had Its Day," which was replete with interesting facts, on the conditions as they used to be in the days of saloons.

State's Attorney Mark C. Keller very ably explained: "Give Prohibition Its Chance," and told of interesting cases which came up in his work as State's Attorney of Lee County. These addresses were very encouraging to the members of the Union and we must observe that prohibition is gaining ground.

The Bidding: South bids no-trump and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads jack of diamonds and trick is won in dummy with queen of diamonds. How should declarer plan his campaign to insure game?

The Error: Declarer plays 2 of hearts to king of hearts. Then jack of hearts is led and 3 of hearts played from dummy.

The Correct Method: Declarer is certain of making two diamond tricks, three club tricks and four heart tricks if hands are correctly played. Declarer should play 2 of hearts and overtake with king of hearts. Then he should play jack of hearts and overtake with the queen of hearts. After the ace of hearts is forced the clubs will be winning tricks.

The Principle: Overtake one high card with another high card if necessary to prevent blocking.

Baldwin Seems to Be Courting Trouble

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—After a disturbance at the pier, Suzanne Legien, French tennis star, her mother and Baldwin M. Baldwin, wealthy Californian, left for France today on the steamship Paris.

Also aboard was Dudley Field Malone, New York and Paris lawyer, who said he would try to obtain a divorce for Baldwin and that then Suzanne and Baldwin would be married.

In his statement when he had regained his poise, Baldwin parried questions. Asked whether he planned a divorce and a marriage to Suzanne, he replied, "answer that yourself."

The tumult started with the boom of a flashlight. Baldwin seized one of the photographers and attempted to wrest his camera from him. He was unsuccessful.

Meanwhile passengers and visitors were thrown into excitement. Suzanne shouted, "arrest that man! This man is responsible! Arrest that man!" No arrests were made, and the photographers, having obtained pictures, departed.

Mr. Lenglen came into the spotlight a few weeks ago when she and her mother and Baldwin departed rather abruptly from the California home of Baldwin's mother where they were visiting.

Suzanne snapped her fingers when asked about Mrs. Baldwin's refusal to quarrel with a guest.

"Mother Baldwin?" She replied, "Pooh! Pooh!"

Alma Rubens, Film Star, Now Patient, in Calif. Hospital

Alma Rubens, screen actress was receiving treatment in a sanitarium near Alhambra, Cal., today after having attempted to escape a physician and his assistant by dashing through the crowds along Hollywood

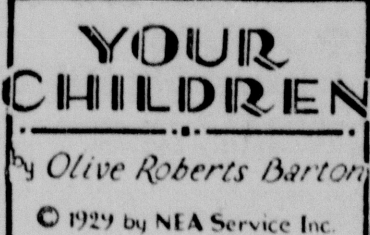

Boulevard and later stabbing the assistant with a paper knife.

Miss Rubens, the wife of Ricardo Cortez, motion picture star, was reported to be in a serious condition and suffering from a complete nervous breakdown.

In a report to the police yesterday Dr. E. W. Meyer, the physician, said he and the assistant, H. Barnett, had called at Miss Rubens home to take her to the sanitarium and that as the three of them were getting into his automobile, the actress turned and bolted down the main business thoroughfare of Hollywood.

"Barnett and I gave chase," the physician said, "and called for Miss Rubens to stop. But she ran faster, started screaming that she was being kidnapped and threw her hat and gloves and threw her purse away."

Mrs. A. Driscoll, who said she was Miss Rubens' aunt, stated that her niece's condition resulted from overwork in completing a picture. She said Miss Rubens had not been in favor of going to the sanitarium, but finally had consented yesterday. The actress was registered at the sanitarium under the name of Genevieve Driscoll.

Are your children getting enough milk?

Because, if they are not, in time it will tell on their general health; every tissue in the body composing vital organs, muscles and membranes, teeth and bones will suffer.

Milk is absolutely necessary to the diet of little children and every sacrifice should be made to get it as long as they are growing.

Even after baby is "off his bottle," he should be given milk to supplement his other food to the amount of one quart a day.

This does not mean that he must drink one quart a day—only part of it. The rest can be put into cooked foods, for cooked milk does not lose its nutritive value.

Better Not to Boil Milk

But I shouldn't boil milk any more than necessary in making cocoa or milk soups. Prepare the other part and cook as much as necessary, then add it to the milk that has been brought to a scald only.

Sometimes mothers think that skim milk is useless and waste it. What a mistake. It is rich in all sorts of things that children need. All it lacks is butter fat, and this can be supplied by butter. For instance if you use skim milk over toast or cereal or crackers, spread a little butter on first. Never waste an ounce of skim milk.

Families that cannot afford whole milk could buy skim milk cheaply and supply the fats in the children's food by butter, butter substitutes, or inexpensive vegetable oils of which there are many wholesome ones on the market; never by fried food, however. Never, never, give a child any fried food.

Milk won't fight with fruit that is not too acid. If a child takes orange juice, it won't hurt him to have milk on his cereal.

Ware of This Combination!

But I wouldn't give a little child milk or cream on strawberries in the summer.

Milk can be served on any stewed fruit.

Milk can be cooked in a cereal or served on it, or both. It can be used in puddings, soups, gravies, custards, cocoa or made into simple white sauce and cooked with vegetables. There are dozens of ways of using it.

But be sure to allow a child plain milk to drink, either with his meals, or in between, or at bed time.

It should always be sipped—never gulped, and never served very cold. It should be sweet and clean and kept covered.

I have been asked if condensed milk is all right. Yes, it is, when necessary, also evaporated, or even powdered milk—but—make every effort to get fresh milk first, particularly for drinking.

HOOVER'S CABINET.

The Washington correspondents seem to be agreed that regardless of the men Mr. Hoover picks for his cabinet, he will exercise a far greater degree of control over the policies of the various departments than Washington has seen since the days of Wilson and Roosevelt.

Somehow, we can't help feeling that this is all to the good. The theory of a hands-off policy, under which each department head runs his own organization pretty much as he sees fit, is a very good one, but when any given official happens to be weak or venal it has woeful results—as witness, for instance, the cases of Mr. Fall and Mr. Daugherty.

Mr. Hoover has the country's confidence to a rare degree. The announcement that he proposes to "run things" himself will be accepted generally as an indication that we are going to have a capable, energetic government.

BETTER MOTORS.

Things move fast in the world of mechanics.

The house of representatives recently passed a bill directing the army to use no more of the famous Liberty motors in its airplanes. If the Senate concurs, the day of the Liberty as a military engine will have ended.

In its day the Liberty motor was a fine achievement. It was simple and reliable. Aviators swore by it. But the new motors, particularly the air-cooled type that took Lindbergh and Chamberlin across the Atlantic, have out-moded it. It is as good as it ever was, but the automobile engineers have surpassed it.

Yet it is hardly more than a decade since the Liberty motor was first built. Already it has been surpassed. Advances in the mechanical world come rapidly.

UNWIELDY CITIES.

It is quite possible that in some not-distant day city boosters and chambers of commerce will be trying, not to exaggerate their city's population figures, but to underestimate them. It is slowly becoming evident that it is quite possible for mere size to progress to a point where it is a hindrance.

New York, choked nearly to death by traffic, is trying out a series of new and drastic regulations. If they reduce congestion, a new skyscraper will go up and make the situation as bad as before. The situation is desperate, and there doesn't seem to be any relief in sight.

Chicago, forced to provide an adequate sewage disposal system for its millions, faces the expenditure of frightful sums on vast engineering works. The city's great size, like New York's, is proving a drawback.

Sooner or later we probably will stop trying to make our cities bigger and content ourselves with making them better.

DISLIKE FOR POLICEMEN.

Why is the policeman, whose main function is to protect our lives and property and make us safe, so often disliked? Judge Henry J. Martin of Birmingham, Ala., fell to musing over this problem the other day, and decided that prohibition and automobiles are at fault.

Prohibition, because the man who wants a drink has to look on the police officer as an enemy; and automobiles, because many a man never makes contact with a policeman except when he gets a bawling out for speeding, passing a red light or something similar. The policeman, therefore, is to many people not a symbol of protection, but a symbol of restriction.

This is too bad, and it's rather tough on the police, whose jobs are hard enough anyhow. But we don't see just what can be done about it.

The Kellogg treaty seems to have overlooked the little matter of gas and electric light franchises as a cause of war.

Men at 45 should begin to disappear, says Sir Arthur Keith. But that's just when most of them begin to expand.

If you have nothing else to be thankful for, anyway you're not the son of the man who wants to name the United States "Unistacia."

A Minneapolis man sued because his cigaret-lighter wouldn't work. It is interesting to note that somebody really bought a cigaret lighter that he didn't give to a friend.

A 10-year-old boy in Alton, Miss., wears size 25 shoes. We were going to say that he ought to make a wonderful cop, but have considerable doubt about whether he'd fit in the traffic department.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

A little scare was then in store. The giant soon began to snore. He woke up all the Tynmites and Clowny, with a frown, said, "Chill are running through my hide. An awful storm is on outside. It feels to me just like this hut's about to tumble down."

The little house then shook once more. "I wonder what we're all in for," said Carpy. "I don't like this sort of night one little bit. I'm sorry, but I'm filled with fear, and wish that we were out of here. But, after all, the giant said that things would be all right."

A moment more, and once again the giant snored out loud, and then wee Scouty broke out in a laugh. "The joke's on us," said he. "There isn't any storm outside." "You're right," another Tyn cried. "That's just the giant snoring. Oh, how badly fooled were we."

The giant then turned on his side and stopped his snoring. Copy cried, "At last we all can go to sleep. Good night, and pleasant dreams." They slept about an hour or so. Then Clowny woke and shouted, "Oh! There's someone just outside this house. I hear some funny screams."

Up to the window they all sneaked and into morning dawn they peaked. "Oh, look! I see some funny lads," said Scouty with a grin. The giant woke and shook his head. "Don't call to them," he loudly said. "They are the little Trouble Tots. I never let them in."

And then he jumped up from the floor and said, "I'll scare them off once more. I do this nearly every day. You're going to see some fun." The next thing that the Tynies knew, they heard the giant shouting, "Boo!" His head was sticking out the door. The Tots began to run.

The Trouble Tots play a trick in the next story.

Many Have an Extra Rib or Two Says Doctor

BY DR. MARK LEWIS EMERSON
Oakland, California

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Every now and then we find some individual with one or two ribs to spare; in other words, he is carrying around with him a couple of spare ribs. Unfortunately, these extras do not protect him from future trouble, as do a couple of extra automobile tires. Quite the contrary; they too frequently get him into all kinds of real trouble and distress of a somewhat obscure origin.

By having one extra kidney, more than one lung, several lobes to his liver, a couple of hemispheres to his brain and two halves to his heart, many a person is kept alive indefinitely while one of those organs—or parts of it at least—are put out of commission, by disease or accident.

Spare-ribs, or false ribs so-called, grow right above the first rib. The average rib is attached to the spinous process of the thoracic vertebrae, but those supernumerary ribs are the spinous processes themselves, growing out in rib shape at the top of the chest cavity.

There being no regular place for these ribs in the human economy, they seem to grow where they can, through and around the various nerves and structures in their vicinity, acting very much like a foreign growth, these short ribs press on another bone or nerve or artery or vein at the base of the neck, they surely will make trouble for the possessor. Certain definite groups of pain are generally associated with this extra cervical rib. Pains radiating through the back of the neck, base of the skull, along the upper vertebrae of the back and neck, and especially radiating down the inner side of the arm. All these and many other pains are due to these extra ribs pressing on sensitive nerves or nerve filaments. Back pains, headaches, dull heavy feeling in upper part of spinal column, irritable temper and frequent change of glasses is, the common rule.

This condition cannot be determined except by a thorough physical examination, eliminating many other possible troubles. Much time is lost as a rule before this condition is finally diagnosed. The X-ray has much to tell you these days about obscure pains and their possible cause. A thorough physical examination is the all important thing here.

See your family doctor about your pains and aches, and don't be satisfied until the source of your trouble is found.

Announcing Substantial Reductions in the prices of the DODGE BROTHERS SENIOR

WHEN THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six was announced, at the beginning of the new year, at prices so low as to overshadow any previous Dodge Brothers accomplishment, its universal public acceptance marked a new peak of popularity even for Dodge Brothers cars.

Public recognition was quickly translated into an unprecedented sales volume with an attendant increase in manufacturing efficiency and economy which now favorably affects its companion car—the Dodge Brothers Senior—and permits substantial reductions in the prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models.

The new lower prices at which the Dodge Brothers Senior henceforth will be sold are directly traceable to the established Chrysler policy of giving the public immediate benefit of every economy due to more efficient manufacturing methods, lower overhead costs and savings effected by the great unified purchasing power of Chrysler Motors.

Not only are these savings now passed on to the public in the form of much lower prices of all Dodge Brothers Senior models, but the cars themselves have been made still better.

Examine the Dodge Brothers Senior in your most critical mood. Scrutinize each small detail. Be most exacting in your inspection. For once you have subjected the Chrysler-built Dodge Brothers Senior to your most diligent and careful inspection you are certain to realize that never before has a car so large, so handsome and so fine been available at so low a price.

SHARKEY GIVEN DECISION OVER AKRON SCRAPPER

Can Now Keep Date in Miami Beach With Young Stribling

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey now can keep that $100,000 date with Young Stribling in Miami Beach next month.

The Boston sailor man outpointed K. O. Christner, tough, willing battler from Akron, O., in a fierce 10-round encounter in Madison Square Garden last night and thereby cleared the way for his big shot against Stribling in the south Feb. 27.

Sharkey's margin of victory was convincingly decisive but, paradox though it may seem, Christner never was outclassed. The dynamite concealed in his sturdy right arm saw to that.

Sharkey fought one of the strangest fights of his erratic career—a curious combination of wily caution and wild, reckless, berserk rage. Clearly the Akron rubber worker was outclassed so far as boxing skill and all-around ring class was concerned, but Sharkey, time after time, was brought up short, momentarily stunned, as Christner connected with his chin with one of those right hand punches that knocked out Knute Hansen less than two months ago.

Christner Unskilled.
These jarring rights landed infrequently, but when they did Sharkey was glad enough to hang on until the mist cleared a bit. With even a little boxing skill it is conceivable that the Akron battler could have put over a finishing blow. But he lacked the boxing skill that would have enabled him to follow up the momentary advantage he gained from time to time.

Meantime Sharkey pumped a steady stream of lefts and rights into Christner's head and body.

After the sixth round the steady battering he had been subjected to began to take its toll on the rugged body of the Akron slugger. He tired badly in the last four rounds and Sharkey, throwing caution to the winds, elected to trade punches with the Akronite. So tired was Christner at that point of the proceedings that even if an opportunity for a knockout punch had presented itself it is doubtful whether he could have taken advantage of it.

TWO CLASSES IN NATIONAL'S RACE AGAIN THIS YEAR

First Four Teams Expected to be Same as Last Year

BY BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—On the basis of mid-winter calculations, the only baseball fuel available now, the National League divides itself into two parts for 1929.

Advance opinions of experts show a disposition to place the Chicago Cubs, New York Giants, Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals in the front rank with the Cincinnati Reds, Brooklyn Robins, Philadelphia Nationals and Boston Braves bringing up the rear.

Such a development in strength would find baseball history repeating itself, for the first division clubs last year were St. Louis, New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh.

The big bat of Hornsby, added to the Cubs' offensive, may be powerful enough to lift Chicago above its third place standing of 1928.

The Giants will enter the next campaign with few changes, one important move being the addition of Fred Leach, former Phillie, to the outfield.

Cardinals propose to gamble on a wholesale scale in the infield, sending Charley Gelbert and Carey Selph, two sensational minor league recruits, to shortstop and second base with Frankie Frisch moving to third, leaving only Jim Bottomley as a holdover in the first line of defense.

Long without a capable left-handed pitcher, the Pirates traded Glen Wright, their shortstop, for Jess Petty, star southpaw of Brooklyn. A successor must be found for Wright and he may be located by moving Pie Traynor from third base.

The second division clubs of last season look with eager anticipation at a full crop of talent from the minors. They will have more youngsters than their more favored fellows and will need them more.

TWO FOREIGN TRACK STARS RACE TONIGHT

Nurmi and Wide Will Run in Different
Indoor Meets

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The foreign track and field invasion gets under way in earnest tonight when Paavo Nurmi and Edwin Wide both swing into action at widely separated points.

While Nurmi is making the second start of his new campaign in a two-mile run at the Prout memorial games in Boston, Wide, the Swedish holder of the two-mile outdoor record, appears in a 1500-meter event at the Masonic games in the 102nd Engineers Armory here.

Aside from Wide's debut, chief interest in the Masonic games centers in a 400-meter exhibition against time by Ray Barbuti, former Syracuse star, who won that championship at the Olympic games last summer. Barbuti has done little training this winter and possibly will not run in competition before spring.

Phil Edwards, New York University Negro flash, who represented Canada in the Olympic games, will run in the 300 meter event against a field that includes Pinkie Sober, Harold Cutbill, George Offenhausser and Fred Veit. After this race Edwards and his N. Y. U. teammate, Veit will dash by taxi-cab to Brooklyn where he will run in a $600-yard special event at the Norwegian Turn Society games.

Willie Goodwin, one time national two-mile champion, launches a comeback campaign in a 3,000 meters run for the Hirsborn trophy against Frank Titterton, national ten and fifteen mile titleholder; Bob Dalrymple of Boston A. A. and other distance stars.

In the sprints, Bob McAllister and Frank Hussey are the leading entrants.

American Escaped Injury in Crash of Italian Plane

Athens, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Two persons were killed and two injured when an Italian hydro airplane on the Pireaus Brandise Service crashed into a rock off Corfu last night.

Charles Holder, an American banker, and his daughter, who were passengers on the plane escaped injury.

Local Marksmen to Enter State Meet in the Spring

The rifle team of Company A of this city, added another scalp to their belt last evening by defeating an independent team on the Company's indoor range in the Armory hall with 21 points to spare. The competition was keen but the riflemen have developed hair trigger precision in their practice work, getting ready to make a showing at the state shoot in the spring. Captain Sherwood Dixon and Hensler shot the scores with 142 points each and in the shoot-off, the latter won. Wilson and Boyer also shot a tie score and Boyer won in the extra inning. The result of last evening's contest was as follows:

MATINEE GAME EXPERIMENT TO BE GIVEN TRIAL

Chicago and Ohio to Play Afternoon
Game Today

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Chicago, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Big Ten basketball snaps out of its doldrums today with an experimental matinee game between Ohio State and Chicago and two important non-conference skirmishes tonight.

Except for what effect it may have on future Big Ten basketball policy, the Chicago-Ohio State battle at Columbus was overshadowed by the non-conference games—Notre Dame at Northwestern, and Creighton College of Omaha at Iowa.

The matinee experiment at Ohio State is being made at the request of many basketball fans, who insist that afternoon games will draw larger crowds. The battle was hardly expected to be an accurate test, however, as both Ohio State and Chicago seem definitely out of the race.

Northwestern has met and defeated Notre Dame once this season. Notre Dame has been improving rapidly, while Northwestern will be minus its star center, "Rut" Walter, who is in a hospital with a damaged knee.

Creighton, which is tied for the lead in the Missouri Valley championship race with three victories and no defeats, threatens to give Iowa a stiff fight.

Only one game, the Iowa-Chicago battle next Saturday night, is on next week's Big Ten schedule.

HUNDRED TINY CANDLES GRACE BIRTHDAY CAKE

Pittsfield Man Today Celebrating 100th Anniversary

Pittsfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—One hundred tiny candles adorn the mammoth cake which Otto Jaritz was to cut today.

A few of his old friends have been invited to the house of his daughter, Mrs. Amos Hooper, to join with the centenarian in celebrating his birthday, which he greets active, alert and happy.

Mr. Jaritz is probably the only man in Illinois who recalls with satisfaction that he did not vote for Abraham Lincoln for president. A life long Democrat, he chuckled as he told of efforts made to get him to change his politics.

"They tried every way they could to get me to vote for the Republican," he said, "but I could not be persuaded, so I cast my vote for the candidate who ran against Mr. Lincoln—I can't even recall his name. I never voted the Republican ticket in my life."

Born in Germany, Mr. Jaritz was brought to America to Griggsville, Illinois—when he was four years old. When Otto became old enough to remember things, he says there were but three houses in Griggsville, and one of these was the one his father had made from logs, and it had only one small window. There was nothing where Pittsfield new stands, and Otto remembers seeing a roof put on the first house and trading center, located on a block in what is now Pittsfield, and where one of the city's leading hotels now stands. There were no roads, only trails, and often he remembers having seen Indians roaming around. He has gone to church many times with his parents, and in those days churches were far apart, and to reach them, the family was loaded into a cart and oxen pulled them to the meeting house.

Has Seen Changes
He also recalled that he had never read of any single man who had lived to witness the changes that he has. When he came to the United States, it was on a sail boat from Germany. Then traveling with oxen was the finest mode of transportation. He

EX-KAISER WILL BE 70 SUNDAY; TO HAVE PARTY

Royalists are Permitted to Stage Celebration for Him

Doorn, Holland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Members of European royal families still on friendly terms with former Kaiser Wilhelm were arriving today to help him celebrate the seventieth anniversary of his birth tomorrow in as grand a style as exile will permit. The first of the Hohenzollerns to arrive was Wilhelm's only daughter, Princess Victoria Louise, who was accompanied by her husband Duke Ernest August of Brunswick, familiarly known as "The Cumberlander."

Limited facilities for the entertainment have seen buglies, wagons, trucks, automobiles, railroads, air ships, steam boats, and all modes of transportation developed and come into general use. He has also witnessed the coming of oil lamps, electric lights, telephone, telegraph, radio, and present day means of communication. He greatly enjoys the radio.

He was married to Miss Liza Jane Bradberry in Griggsville. She has been dead since 1890. There are two children, Mrs. Amos Hooper and Mrs. Isaac Capps, of Pittsfield, with whom he makes his home, spending six months with one daughter, and the next six months with the other.

Drinks Much Water
As to what he attributes his longevity, Mrs. Jaritz isn't so sure. He gave up tobacco three years ago because it disagreed with one of his daughters and "I got tired of having to go out on the porch in below zero weather every time I wanted to smoke, so I just quit." Then he took up tobacco chewing.

Maybe, he said, it's because he drinks lots of water, keeps regular habits, and has lived an outdoor life. His early morning menu is a pint of cold water, eggs, kraut, biscuits, jelly and coffee, followed by a chaser of a pint of warm water. For dinner he eats whatever he wants—with lots of water.

The centenarian cannot remember ever having contracted a cold.

ment of the royal guests caused them to be scattered throughout various castles and other buildings near Doorn House. The Princess and the Duke with the former Kaiser's sister, Princess Sophie, widow of former King Constantine of Greece, will be the only guests at Doorn castle.

Doorn postal clerks have worked overtime to handle the large bulk of congratulations coming by mail.

Speaking through Baron Von Sell, the former Kaiser gave an interview to the chief of the Berlin bureau of The Associated Press. A foreword dictated and signed by the former Kaiser said:

"To promote the welfare of the German people and to preserve the peace in the world—this has even been the supreme law governing my actions. In the firm faith in God, the all just, I therefore hope to live to see the day that shall free us Germans from the burden of the false accusation of having unleashed the greatest of all wars."

Doorn, Holland, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The glory which was Hohenzollern's will live here again Sunday with the formal celebration of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's seventieth birthday.

A week of more or less elaborate receptions will come to a spectacular climax Sunday night when a reunion of the living Hohenzollerns and a levee which will approach, in pomp and grandeur, those of the pre-republican days.

The capacities of this little Dutch town where the exiled Wilhelm II has lived for 10 years, have been taxed by loyal monarchists making a pilgrimage to Doorn house. Several thousand have come and gone in the past week, going to greet their bearded and less vigorous ex-ruler in the glory of court dress and the brilliance of royal decorations.

Final Ceremony
Now comes the final ceremony which will begin with a dinner for the 40 or more close relatives at Doorn house, a reception for former members of the imperial household following.

The list of Hohenzollerns present includes most of those surviving. Crown Prince Wilhelm and his numerous progeny may be missing. The breach between father and son, which dates back before the war, has been widened in late years, and there is little expectation that even this anniversary will bring the two together. Another missing face will be that of Princess Ernestine, whose marriage to a young Russian a year ago was vigorously opposed by her brother, the ex-kaiser.

The anniversary of the former ruler is being celebrated all over Germany by members of the monarchist party. Plays have been written for the occasion and partisan journals are publishing special editions.

"Blow Off Steam"
The government is permitting the celebration, declaring that it is better policy to let the die-hards blow off steam than cultivate the martyrdom of a refusal.

At Doorn house the ex-kaiser is frankly enjoying the flash of imperial splendor. The faithful pilgrims are enjoying their share in the ceremonies. The Dutch, at first a trifle apprehensive, are breathing more easily, confident that nothing will occur to mar the friendly relations existing between their country and Germany.

MINORITY PARTY BIDES ITS TIME IN STATE SENATE

Democrats Outnumbered
Almost Four to
One in Branch

By GILES L. FINDLEY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Freshly kindled fires under the legislative boilers of the Illinois General Assembly have generated enough steam to allow the craft to start creakily on its 56th biennial voyage.

With 58 bills introduced in the upper house and with all committees named and standing watch, the Senate has throttled down to bare steership way so that the slower moving House may keep pace.

Nothing has been attempted in the Senate, except to perfect the committee organization and introduce new bills. No bills have been subjected to debate and no effort made to advance any to second reading.

Republicans have proceeded with the Senate organization without protest. Democrats, realizing they were outnumbered almost four to one, are "biding their time" minority leader Hughes remarked until they can use their block of eleven votes as a "whip."

Followers of the Jeffersonian policy orously opposed by her brother, the ex-kaiser.

tical faith were not given any of the 41 committee chairmanships, even though two Republicans, Senators Norman G. Flagg of Mena and Florence Tifer Bohrer of Bloomington, had to double up and accept two chairmanships. Senator Martin E. Carlson of Moline, president pro tem of the Senate, was excused.

Democratic senators are on all committees except the one for the enrolling, transcribing and typing of bills which is manned by five Republicans. On the important appropriations committee only seven Democrats appear with 31 Republicans.

With the important committee on committees packed with administration Republicans, the Democrats evinced little interest in committee selections. After the list had been prepared and was ready to be read to the Senate for approval, the Republicans called a caucus in a committee room and read the list in order that dissatisfaction in the rank might be quelled without reaching the floor.

In the house, Speaker David Shanahan is still busily considering the lists of committee preferences turned in by the members. Failure of many members to confer with him and the innocence of some new members who turned in a preference to be on senate committees, held up completion of the committees, which Shanahan had hoped for a week earlier.

Kansas City Scene of Clean-up Raids

Kansas City, Kan., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Acting under the special powers granted in Governor Clyde M. Reed's new law enforcement program, which became a law late yesterday, authorities today were busily engaged in drying up the largest city in Kansas.

Raiding by county officers and three special assistants to the Attorney General, which began here late last night and continued today, resulted in more than 50 arrests and seizure of a considerable quantity of alleged liquor.

Twenty-five of the persons arrested in the crusade against liquor and gambling resorts were charged with prohibition violation, while others were picked up as frequenters in alleged saloons and gambling halls. Many were released on $1,500 bonds.

announcing The New PONTIAC BIG SIX

Introducing Big Car Standards of Luxury,
Style and Performance at $745

TODAY a new type of low cost motoring luxury is available. It embraces big car style. It provides big car riding comfort. It embodies big car quality in unseen parts. It is offered by a brand new automobile—the New Pontiac Big Six.

Frankly, the New Pontiac Big Six was designed to appeal to a certain group. This group is made up of people who are beginning to move up in the world. Many of them will soon make the first step up in the quality of their cars. The New Pontiac Big Six was designed for them.

It comes to them entirely new in appearance. Stunning new bodies by Fisher contribute to the big car beauty and big car style presented by the car as a whole.

Progressive people are seeking greater luxury. The Pontiac Big Six offers them the luxury for which bodies by Fisher are famous the world over. It provides the smooth-riding qualities of a car 167 inches in overall length, with accurately balanced rotating mechanical parts and such advanced comfort features as adjustable drivers' seats.

It is a six with the added power of a larger L-head engine and the added smoothness imparted by a dynamically balanced, counter-weighted crankshaft and the famous Harmonic Balancer. Its new brakes are of the dirt-and-weather-proof internal four-wheel type.

It reveals big car performance even to the point of developing big car power and big car speed.

Only a few highlights in its construction have been mentioned. Just enough to prove that the Pontiac Big Six is entirely new and capable of meeting progressive Americans' demand. But the amazing thing about it is that it gives so much big car luxury, style and performance at prices which come within practically everyone's reach!

Prices $745 and up, f.o.b. factory, plus delivery charges. Bumpers and rear fender guards regular equipment at slight extra cost. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

With Honce on His Trip Around State of Illinois

BY CHARLES HONCE
 (Associated Press News Editor)

Alton, Ill., Jan. —(AP)—You will not find the Plaza bird mentioned in any standard work on ornithology, but in Alton at least it is as well known as the sparrow or the robin. So well known in fact that it has given its name to streets, towns, buildings and streams.

Ornithologists no doubt were unable properly to classify a creature with the head of a Moose, the horns of a deer, claws of an eagle, body of a giant lizard and tail of a snake with a prong on the end.

Father Marquette, quietly floating down the Mississippi river in 1673, was equally as puzzled when he observed this grotesque figure painted on the rocks where Alton now stands. Father Marquette made a notation in his journal and let it go at that.

This huge painting, twenty-five feet wide and eleven feet deep remained on those rocks from Father Marquette's day until 1857 when the age of modern improvement saw it quarried away for rock ballast needed in the construction of a railroad. There are men living here today who recall when this painting by some unknown Indian artist graced the bluffs. One can only surmise how many centuries ago this Indian painted his brush. The modern generation may view a reproduction made by an Alton Boy Scout.

This then is the Plaza bird of fact. Beyond is the Plaza bird of legend, a pre-historic monster who skulked in a great cave, flashing forth to nip an Indian for his daily meal.

Alton, now a thriving industrial and commercial city of 36,000, with its eyes on the future of the Mississippi valley community of which it is a part, likes occasionally to look back over its historic and legendary past.

When the Alton Evening Telegraph published its one hundred page edition last September, it devoted an entire page to old Indian legends of his locality and particularly those woven around the great Plaza bird. The story goes that Chief Quatoga of the Illini, sorely grieved as his youths and maidens disappeared in the talons of the creature, offered himself as a human sacrifice that his warriors might slay the marauder with poisoned arrows.

"The Plaza Bird came closer and closer," the Telegraph account relates, "and was just dropping its great talons to grasp the old chief when 100 cutting arrows sped on their way, cutting through the creature's scaly armor. With a thunder-scream and a terrible roar he fell on the side of the cliff and plunged 200 feet into the waters of the Mississippi. It is said that the medicine men of the Illini tribe then painted the image of the great bird on the bluffs."

It is difficult to say just where legend dies and fact begins, but at least it is known that in 1807 when Gov. William Clark of Missouri came to the camp of the Illini Indians, he told of the Red men who paddled him down the Portage des Sioux stopping from their labor to fire at the great bird-beast on the rocks at Alton.

But Alton does not have to stretch so far into the misty past for thrilling stories. A quarter of a century before the Civil War, the first gun of that great conflict was fired here. That shot took the life of Elijah P. Lovejoy, young Presbyterian preacher and the editor of an anti-slavery paper.

It was on the night of Nov. 7, 1837 that the preacher-editor was assassinated and the echo of that shot did not entirely die away until the slavery issue had been decided by war. For one thing, Lovejoy's death caused Wendell Phillips, then undecided, to join the ranks of the abolitionists and to raise his powerful voice against slavery.

History dwells on this dramatic point. It was at Faneuil Hall in Boston that a speaker declared that Lovejoy "died as a fool died"—with-out cause, without reason, with benefit to no one. Mrs. Wendell Phillips who was present with her husband, asked him if he could still still while such a statement were made.

Wendell Phillips couldn't. He arose and said: "How carefully some men sink into nameless graves, while others forget themselves into immortality."

Elijah Lovejoy lies in his grave on a hill above the business district of Alton. A little stone marks the spot. On it his friends engraved in Latin "Here lies Lovejoy. Spare now the dead." They feared to do more at the time, but later Alton and the state erected a monument bearing the abolitionists' words:

"I have sworn eternal opposition to slavery and by the blessing of God will never turn back."

It was in 1817, the year Illinois was admitted to the union, that Rufus Easton laid out the present city of Alton. The town now known as East Alton was laid out in the same year. More than a quarter of a century earlier, however, here was a settlement here. Jean Baptiste Cardinal might be considered the first citizen as he constructed a rude habitation in 1783. Cardinal was unlucky enough to be captured by the Indians, but his house appears in the records a few years later as a trading post.

Since then History has not stinted in writing in Alton's record book. The last of the great Lincoln-Douglas debates was held here in 1858 and it was just across the river that the famous Lincoln-Shields duel was fought. The echo of this still is heard. Just the other day an Oklahoma Civil war veteran came out with a new version—that Lincoln fired a gun filled with pokeberries.

Nowadays Alton is making history in the industrial field. Industrial statisticians will tell you that Alton has the largest glass factory and strip tannery in the world, the largest lead smelting plant in the state and one of the biggest brass mills, is a great oil refining center and is third in Illinois in meat packing and second in flour milling.

It has gained 8,000 population in the last eight years, is the center of a trade territory of 125,000, and spent nearly $5,000,000 in public improvements alone last year. The year 1928 saw the opening of a $2,250,000 bridge, a $700,000 public high school, a $250,000 Catholic high school, a $100,000 park, a $50,000 fire station and a $25,000 city hall.

Now, the Alton Evening Telegraph, which was started back in 1836, has outgrown its present quarters and is figuring on a new building. Forty years ago lads trudged the only streets carrying and rival papers. One was Paul B. Cousley and the other was J. D. McDams. They became friends and that friendship lasted through the years. Today they own the Telegraph, which is a member of the Associated Press. It was their friendship which speeded the final newspaper consolidation here. Incidentally Mr. Cousley also is postmaster, president of the Illinois

Associated Press and a student of midwestern history, particularly of the Lincoln period. He has aided the Lincoln centennial celebration with a $25,000 city hall.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHTORETH ASHIE (her name is HART now) honeymooning in Paris, meets an old sweetheart—MONTY ENGLISH.

Ashoreth is living with her new husband, who is wonderfully rich, at the Ritz. Poor Monty, who sells radios, has a room over on the Left Bank. Monty always had a way of making a joke of poverty, and now—she tells Ashoreth about his French flapper and his cheap pension—she thinks of her own lived-in chauffeur, who rather frightens her; and her maid, who simply overdoes her.

And she grows a little wistful. Monty asks her if she is happy, and she insists that she is. But somehow she conveys the impression that all is not exactly as it should be.

As a matter of fact, her adoring, middle-aged husband is getting slightly on her nerves. Not that he isn't good natured—he is simply worships the ground she walks on. And he is showering her, morning, noon and night, with the most wonderful gifts!

Sometimes Ashoreth has a feeling of paying for pearls and diamonds with the thought makes her shiver.

She tells Hollis of meeting Monty, and asks if she may invite him to dinner. Hollis is hospitable, and gracious as usual.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER LXIV

ASHTORETH had all she could do, coaxing Monty to have dinner with them.

He had given her his address, and she had Felix drive her over to the Left Bank. Felix, very grand in his bottle-green livery and his shiny pumps, driving the beautiful car, which was also bottle-green.

Perhaps Monty wouldn't be at home, but she had chosen Monday, hoping for the best. Monday, any shops were open on Monday, so probably there wasn't anywhere for a radio salesman to call. Anyhow she could leave him a note.

She was admitted by a lady of generous proportions and snapping black eyes, who escorted her to Monty's room, and assured her that he would return shortly.

Felix smiled nastily, showing his upper teeth, which looked like a squirrel's.

She was getting uneasy, when Monty made a noisy appearance. Rather abruptly, Ashoreth thought.

She rather expected a note from him after that. He might have telephoned. Or sent flowers, the way Hollis' friends did, when they came to dine.

It was Monday again. Hollis was at some stupid museum, looking at relics. The curator was a friend of his. It was sure to be a tiresome, highbrow afternoon. So Ashoreth set out in the Hispano-Suiza, with Felix in his bottle-green. To call on Monty again.

He was in the garden when she arrived, feeding hens and rabbits, and bit so hard that presently the pointed tip of a gleaming finger nail came poking through. "It's not that," Monty. "It's—don't laugh at me!" she cautioned.

"Never," he promised. "Well . . . it's sort of a spirit—" der glass on the center table. The color scheme was green, like Pullmans and day coaches.

"Dinner!" he exclaimed. "In your bridal suite at the Ritz. I suppose? Nice, honey little meal. No thanks, Ash—not on your life."

"But Hollis wants you to come!" she protested.

"Well, that's very nice of him, I'm sure. Nothing mean about Hollis, is there? All ready to prove that the best man won. Being good to the bird that got that gate. You tell him for me, Ash, I'm not hankering to see him making love to any of my old girls."

"Oh, Monty, don't be horrid. You're just as vulgar as can be!" "That's what you used to tell me. Well, I haven't got over it any. If it's vulgar to hate to see any man pawing you, then I'm vulgar."

"But, Monty, you don't know how fastidious and reserved Hollis is. Why, he wouldn't even touch me, in front of a servant or anybody . . . Please come, darling. I'm awfully homesome for somebody besides Hollis."

"Getting fed up, are you?" "Don't talk like that," she commanded. "Just say you'll come, like a good boy. And we'll have champagne!"

"Nope," he declared. "I won't."

BUT, in the end, of course, he did. Ashoreth wore a dress like a silver armor, and looked as Jeanne d'Arc ought to have looked, but probably didn't. Slim and sparkling, with a proud high lift in her dark head, and her gray-green eyes flashing like spear points.

Hollis was deferential, as though she was a saint—or a nun, at least. He never touched her with his hands all evening. Only with his eyes. They followed her about, caressing her every move and motion. And he called her Orchid. He never called her anything else.

At 10 o'clock Monty went away. Rather abruptly, Ashoreth thought.

She rather expected a note from him after that. He might have telephoned. Or sent flowers, the way Hollis' friends did, when they came to dine.

It was Monday again. Hollis was at some stupid museum, looking at relics. The curator was a friend of his. It was sure to be a tiresome, highbrow afternoon. So Ashoreth set out in the Hispano-Suiza, with Felix in his bottle-green. To call on Monty again.

Obituary

Mrs. Susan Lett, an aged and widely known and highly respected resident of this place, passed quietly from this life Saturday afternoon. This good woman had lived a number of years beyond the Biblical allotment to man, her years were years of good-will, friendliness, thoughtful deeds and helpfulness to not only to her relatives, but neighbors and friends. In death her passing was like the withing of a flower, tired and in need of rest.

Susan Catherine Elcholtz was born near Gettysburg, Pa., May 7 1845, and passed away at her home in Franklin Grove, Ill., January 19 1929, aged 83 years, 8 months and 12 days.

She was united in marriage to Henry A. Lett, also of Gettysburg, in 1867, and in the year 1869 they came to Lee county to make their home where she has since resided excepting five years spent in Hancock county, Iowa. She was the mother of five children: William J. Mrs. Anna Trottnow; Harvey B.; Edgar L.; and by her son, Harvey B. in the year 1891 and her husband passed away in 1908. Since her husband died she and her daughter, Miss Ellice, have resided together. During the very long illness she has received most constant, tender care, was indeed a source of great comfort by her dutiful daughter, Ellice. Early in life she united with the Lutheran church and after coming to Franklin Grove, became a faithful and consistent member of the Presbyterian church. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. E. Thomas in the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon with interment in the Franklin cemetery.

A chair is vacant at the hearth. A voice we lived is still. A faithful mother has been called To do the Master's will.

The ties of home are broken now. No more we see her face; But memories of mother, dear, No time nor Death erase

Life's garden now is one flower less Since loving mother left. Life's temple can not reach her, for She's sheltered in the clift Protected from the ills of Life It's sorrow and its woe, She flourishes, a flower above, Where Heavenly breezes blow. Relatives from a distance attending the funeral were: Lowell Trottnow, Mt. Vernon, Iowa; Mr. Harry Elcholtz and daughter, Miss Pearl of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Elcholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wendt of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brat-
